exploded drawings

neon objects by Kuros Nekouian the 'exploded drawings' evolved from the previous project 'neon objects'. i had ordered another eight new neon objects, but when i saw the 41 separate elements spread out on my studio floor, it reminded me so much of an 'exploded drawing' of a device in engineering, that i gave up the original idea to display the eight neon objects. instead i kept the elements separated and treated each as an equal individual element. i started to make site specific installations in changing constellations with these 41 neon elements. the number of involved elements varies and individual elements can be part of different installations. the title of the installation will be continuously numbered and show the year of the creation.
